We are a high performing organisation. A key part of this is being clear about roles and expectations. The Ministry's expectations of Senior Advisers are set out below. The intent is to clarify, make visible and clearly communicate expectations to ensure common understanding and consistency.

Delivery Leadership

Senior advisers work on and often have a leadership role in complex, ambiguous and sensitive work. Senior advisers are skilled at scoping a piece of work and making connections to related areas of work to deliver the result the Ministry needs. They effectively plan and manage projects, and anticipate issues before they arise. Senior advisers deliver and work with others to deliver products that are fit-for-purpose, timely, and high quality.

Self and Team Focus

Senior Advisers are honest & courageous, curious, self-aware & agile and resilient. Senior advisers focus on developing and cementing their professional skills so that they have a deep tool kit. They build capability within their team by pro-actively supporting more junior staff on core skills, stakeholder engagement, planning, and navigating through complex issues. Senior advisers model these behaviours.

Ministry Contribution

Senior advisers understand the Ministry's priorities and objectives, and contribute to accomplishing Ministry goals. Senior Advisers get involved across the Ministry. They foster a culture of learning, share their knowledge and experience, and help to challenge thinking.

Professional Capability

Senior advisers apply well-developed professional knowledge and skills to their work. Senior advisers are capable of working with minimal supervision but seek guidance on complex issues, and test possible solutions to problems. They know and use a range of techniques, models and frameworks relevant to their work, and use the most appropriate approach in a given situation.

(External) Engagement

Senior Advisers are connected outside the team and the Ministry – they are visible, valued and operate across a range of networks. Senior Advisers develop, build and share knowledge, collaborate with others, and influence the agenda. They effectively represent the Ministry's interests and are trusted advisers.
